Myrdal, in lr to Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter, says he should have declined prize which was awarded to him and to Friedrich A von Hayek in '74. Confidential poll of some leading economists at closed meeting in NY last wk indicates feelings on issue are strong though mixed. Polled on their choices for futute prize winners, their lists were short. Winners of prize since it was established in '68 revd. '76 award to Prof Milton Friedman provoked storm of criticism based mainly on Friedman's willingness to give advice to post-Allende Govt of Chile. Myrdal and Hayek illus at prize ceremony, '74 (L.)
